ANNUAL REPORT

APRIL 1, 2009 – MARCH 31, 2010

Through exhibitions, education and outreach services, Textile Center is advancing the development of fiber artists, supporting a vibrant fiber art community, and providing public access to excellence in fiber art.

Letter from the Board President and Executive Director

The breeze you felt at midnight on March 31st was our collective sigh of relief as Textile Center ended its year in a healthy financial position. We had spent much of the year holding our breath, bracing for the worst, as Textile Center and the rest of the country endured the recession. The year's budget had been pared down by 14% in anticipation of cuts in foundation and government grants as well as decreases in other income areas. Thankfully, the worst did not happen.

Cuts in grants occurred but they were offset by an exceptional response from individuals. Combined income from memberships and individual contributions grew more than 20%. Income from our fundraising events—the annual Garage Sale and the new Fiber Frenzy event—grew by 50% and sales in the shop increased 25%. We cannot overstate how much we deeply appreciate the members, donors, volunteers, program participants and customers who supported Textile Center this year. They remain the backbone of this vibrant organization.

On another high note, Textile Center was proud to meet the Charities Review Council's Accountability Standards in December 2009, certifying our commitment to organizational integrity, transparency, and accountability. Textile Center voluntarily participated in this review which involved demonstrating adherence to nonprofit standards in governance, financial activity, fundraising and public disclosure. Donors can be assured through this certification that their contributions are wisely managed and spent.

We are especially proud of this year's programming which engaged about 200,000 people in fiber art. Among the year's outstanding exhibitions, Intimate Apparel generated plenty of buzz with its provocative examination of the role and symbolism of merkins. Our support for emerging artists moved to a new level with an exhibition of work created by the first recipients of the Jerome Fiber Artist Project Grants. Education remained the cornerstone of Textile Center programming and hundreds of children and adults participated in workshops and classes that delved into everything from centuries-old dye techniques to imaginative applications of new technologies.

We continue to move forward programmatically and organizationally. Plans are already underway for several exciting new ventures. They include joining forces with Surface Design Association to co-sponsor the 2011 International Textile Conference in Minneapolis, launching a new traveling exhibition, creating a new field trip and school residency service, and much more.

We offer our sincere thanks to everyone who helped make this year so successful. Textile Center faces a very bright future because of your passion and support for fiber art.

EXHIBITIONS

Textile Center continued to showcase excellence and innovation in fiber art through exhibitions at its facility and on the road. Works by artists from Minnesota and around the world were presented in these juried, invitational, and member shows.

Joan Mondale Gallery

Living History: Textiles of India drew from the private collection of Elsa Sreenivasam and explored textiles from India as a dynamic cultural art form.

Nothing New presented imaginative work created from discarded and found materials by 28 artists selected by juror Steven Aimone.

Advancements: Jerome Fiber Artist Project Exhibition featured exciting new work created by recipients of the 2008 Jerome Fiber Artist Project Grant Program: Maggie Dayton, Ingrid Restemayer, and Heidi Henderson.

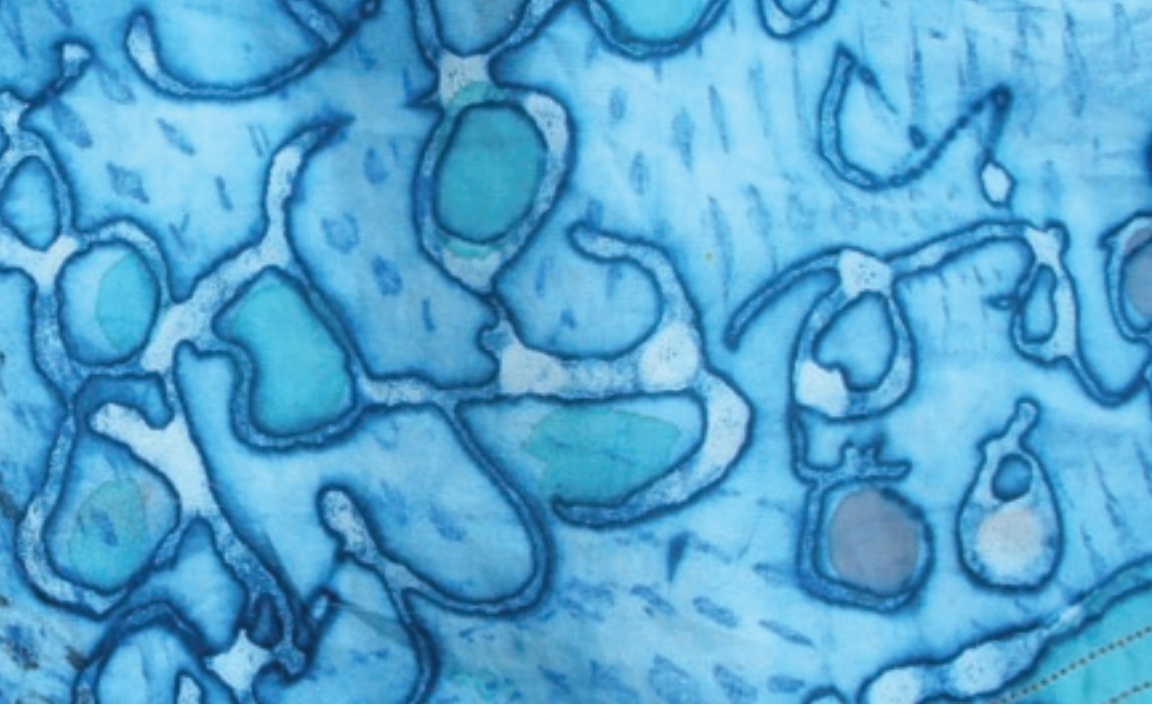

Intimate Apparel offered fascinating artistic interpretations of merkins—pubic wigs for women that date back to the 14th century. California artist Linda Gass curated this invitational show and the 22 participating artists used everything from velvet and lace to match sticks and pine cone scales to explore the symbolism of merkins.

Holiday Show & Sale featured a wide variety of fiber art work by 150 artists from Minnesota and across the country.

A Common Thread: Textile Center Members' Show showcased the artistic excellence of more than 90 Textile Center members in this annual non-juried exhibit.

Metaphoric Fibers: Untamed Knitting & Crochet presented fiber abstractions of everyday reality by 23 artists using knitting and crochet techniques in this international exhibition juried by Adrienne Sloane and Karen Searle.

Touring Exhibitions

Focus on Fibers: Selections from Textile Center continued its regional tour with a stop at the Plains Museum in Fargo, North Dakota. Climate Change, conducted in partnership with the Fiber Artists Study Group, concluded its two-year tour with an exhibition at the University of Minnesota Coffman Art Gallery. Textile Center also presented its annual exhibitions at the Minnesota State Fair and the touring Original Sewing & Quilting Expo.

Textile Center Shop

Exceptional fiber art by artists from Minnesota and around the country was featured for sale in Textile Center's shop. The shop's outstanding selection of fiber art work drew thousands of shoppers and shop sales outpaced all prior years—generating income for artists and Textile Center.

EDUCATION & COMMUNITY OUTREACH

Innovation took center stage this year as students of all ages learned about technology applications in fiber art.

The highly popular Technology Tuesday series offered instruction in topics including digital fabric printing, photographing art work, social media, blogging, and online marketing. In a class co-sponsored with the Science Museum of Minnesota, High Fashion Low Voltage, students integrated LED lights into imaginative artwear, quilts, and other fiber art creations. Heidi Henderson used her 2009 Jerome Fiber Artist Project Grant to explore digital fabric design and sustainable printing in the wholesale marketplace. And, after leading students on a photo safari around Textile Center's neighborhood, visiting artist Donna Kallner taught participants how to manipulate and transfer these close-to-home images to fabric.

Education also had a global flavor this year. We welcomed Elsa Sreenivasam to speak about her textile collection from India in conjunction with the Living History exhibition. Many classes and tour groups studied the exhibition and created fiber art projects that utilized techniques from the show. An online photo gallery of selected works from Living History was used as a teaching tool in art and social studies classrooms at South St. Paul High School, Jackson Middle School in Champlin, Minnesota, and Lincoln Academy in Rapid City, South Dakota.

Scores of children learned about shibori and batik dye techniques and felt-making traditions from around the world in workshops that were conducted in partnership with after-school programs, Girl Scout troops, and other community-based groups. Through hands-on sessions at state and district-wide conferences, educators from across Minnesota learned about Japanese kumihimo braiding, Native American beadwork, hand spinning and Indian shisha embroidery.

The summer sizzled with camps and outreach activities for youth. More than 200 students designed and made pajama pants; stitched teddy bears and sock monkeys; and learned to dye and silk screen in our dye lab. In addition to our 38 summer camp sessions, our teachers delivered hands-on fiber art activities to children through partnerships with Project Kids, Summer Splash, and Minneapolis Kids. We also delivered more than 120 hours of fiber art programming during the school year to children at Anwatin Middle School, Pratt Neighborhood School and Sheridan YMCA Beacons programs in Minneapolis.

March was “knitting month” at the Textile Center. Visiting artist Adrienne Sloane led a sculptural knitting weekend workshop, creating art with everything from crime scene tape to licorice ropes. Visitors to the Textile Center held spontaneous knitting sessions in the lobby and helped create and install knit graffiti on everything from door pulls to sign posts.

Textile Center’s Mentor Program continues to thrive and help artists advance their artistic development through one-on-one instruction and coaching. Seven protégés and four mentors will conclude the current 18-month session with an exhibition in 2010.

After a successful first round of the Jerome Fiber Artist Project Grant Program, Textile Center received funding to support a new trio of artists in 2010. This re-granting program advances the careers of emerging fiber artists in Minnesota by providing financial support to artists to complete short-term artistic objectives. Kevin Kramp, Allison Roberts and Lyz Wendland were selected from an applicant pool of 41 artists and they will exhibit their finished projects in 2010.

TEXTILE CENTER PAT O'CONNOR LIBRARY

Housing the largest circulating collection of fiber books, periodicals and media materials in the country, the library remains an invaluable research and design resource for artists and students.

The popular Author Bag Lunch Series continued with a line-up of lively presentations by authors of newly published fiber art books. Authors featured during the year were Susan Stein, Diane Fitzgerald, Frances Iverson, Nora Murphy, Nancy Eha and Kristal Wick.

Just the Numbers — Library

19,003 volumes	1,577 donated books	1,366 donated patterns
4,299 library patrons	5,905 donated magazines	1,012 donated volunteer hours
4,067 books checked out

CONNECTING & HONORING COMMUNITY

Each year Textile Center publically recognizes individuals who have made a lifetime commitment to fiber art.

Three outstanding members of the textile community were awarded Textile Center's Spun Gold Award during 2009/2010. Mary Temple was honored for her many years of teaching in the field; Marj Ford Sethna was honored for her work as a liturgical weaver and Norma Kenney was honored for her quilting and sewing.

Support

We remain amazed by and deeply grateful for the contributions of our donors, members, and volunteers. More than 300 individuals volunteered during the year, contributing 4,500 hours for tasks ranging from sorting massive quantities of yarn at the Garage Sale to welcoming guests at an evening exhibition opening.

Our annual fund campaign got off to a strong start in November 2009 through participation in Give to the Max Day and the new online giving resource, GiveMN.org. Many people responded to matching gifts which began with Give to the Max Day and continued through the year — enabling Textile Center to surpass its goal and end the year in a strong financial position.

Textile Center introduced Fiber Frenzy, a new fundraising event featuring the sale of fiber art work that was donated by artists and supporters. This highly successful first time event generated more than $9,000 and Fiber Frenzy will continue as an annual winter event.

Textile Center's new Leadership Circle recognizes individuals contributing $500 or more and these stewards of the organization are helping assure Textile Center's future. In thanks for their support, we invite members to tours of artist studios and private fiber art collections. We are grateful to Nancy and Warren MacKenzie, Nancy Gipple and Kinji Akagawa, and Lotus and Edward Stack for opening their homes and sharing their art work and collections for the 2009/2010 Leadership Circle events.
